DEEPEST WELL IN THE WORLD.

That is what it is desired to make the Test Well at the State University at Morgantown, arrived here from Washington City yesterday on an interesting and important mission. He bears a proposition from the authorities of the National Geological Survey to bear a portion of the expense of sinking the test well for oil or gas now being sunk on the property of the Wheeling Development Company, to a depth of one mile—5,280 feet. The well was started by subscriptions of $500, to be supplemented by a further one of $400 if it is found to be necessary, on the condition that the home company will bear any further additional expenses necessary to go down to the depth of a mile.

To reach a mile deep it will be necessary to sink the hole 1,180 feet deeper. At the present depth, it costs three dollars a foot to drill. That would make the additional drilling cost $3,540. The home company has about $600 available for the purpose, and a most little more, besides subscriptions to a most little more. It will be necessary to raise about $2,000 here yet to accomplish the desired result. There is no thought to be any great chance of striking oil or gas in the further progress of the hole, although there is a possibility of doing so. It will be a great thing, however, to sink the well to the depth of a mile, and the interest made desirable. It is proposed to keep a careful measurement of the strata gone through by the drill, and have samples of each different formation. These will be arranged in glass tubes in the proportionate thickness in which they exist in the earth. This tube will be exhibited at the World's Fair at Chicago, in 1893, and afterwards will be sent to Washington, and a careful study of what is revealed by the drill in its descent will also be kept at Washington for the information of all the nations of the earth.

When the drill gets down to a greater depth than one has ever gone before, the temperature of the earth at that point will be taken by a self-registering thermometer, and minute observations will also be made of the magnetic conditions and other peculiar characteristics of things of which the scientific world has not any experimental knowledge. Two government officers will come here for this purpose. It is desired also that the geologist that if the well is sunk to the depth of a mile, it will be a most interesting thing, the casing may not be pulled, but the well left intact, so that in the future, as soon as a sufficient appropriation for the purpose can be secured, the government may pull the hole down to any depth, in the interests of science.

It is believed there will be no difficulty in securing the additional money. Already several of those who have before them the prospect of a most interesting thing, the casing may not be pulled, but the well left intact, so that in the future, as soon as a sufficient appropriation for the purpose can be secured, the government may pull the hole down to any depth, in the interests of science.

Aside from every other consideration which makes this plan desirable, the advertisement of the well as the location of the deepest hole in the world, ought to be enough to arouse sufficient local pride to put the scheme through.

At a quarter after seven yesterday morning Mr. S. O. Burdick died of typhoid pneumonia, contracted on his last business trip.

Mr. Burdick was born in Komorn, Hungary, October 15, 1842. He received a thorough education, and in 1863 emigrated to America. In 1865 he was elected to the position of Captain of the First Regiment of West Virginia Cavalry, in which he served till his company was mustered out. He returned to his home in Komorn, and was elected Mayor of the city.

He was in the employ for awhile of Mr. Augustus Pollock and of Mr. O. R. Rhodes, and afterwards, in partnership with his brother-in-law, W. G. Goering, conducted a grocery. In 1870 he accepted the position of bookkeeper with the Reymann Brewing Company, and after traveling to various parts of the country, he was a member of the Hermann Lodge, A. O. U. W., and of Sheridan Post, G. A. R. Mr. Burdick had five children, of whom two survive, Mrs. George B. Riddle and Mr. Oscar Burdick, Jr.

A timely warning.

Commander Charles McGregor, U. S. N., Lighthouse Inspector of this district, writes to the INTELLIGENCER that he has heard complaints that persons fishing in the vicinity of Wheeling Island are in the habit of removing the fish from the water and selling them for profit. He desires to call public attention to the law on this subject, which affixes a penalty of a thousand dollars fine upon any person who "willfully and unlawfully injures any pier, breakwater or other work of the United States for the improvement of the rivers or harbors or navigation thereof. The law, he says, will be strictly enforced.

In Clerk McKee's Office.

A writing appointing J. W. Ramsey attorney for the silver Guarantee Remedy Company was also recorded.

St. George's Day Observed.

Yesterday was St. George's day and the Knights of St. George attended early communion at the Cathedral at 6:30 a. m. A sermon appropriate to the occasion was delivered by Rev. Monsignor Sullivan to the Knights. The society was well represented at the early service.
